

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A manufacturing method of a semiconductor device disclosed herein, comprises: forming a buried insulating film in a semiconductor substrate; forming semiconductor elements isolated by the buried insulating film; cleaning a surface side of the semiconductor substrate with a cleaning solution; and covering a surface side of the buried insulating film with a protective film before the step of cleaning the surface side of the semiconductor substrate, wherein a protective film is resistant to the cleaning solution.